To whom it may concern.

This letter is my official recommendation for Eric Isaac as a survey consultant. I have managed offshore field development projects for Noble Energy and Chevron Mediterranean Limited that required specialized survey services over the past six years and the results that we have gotten from Eric have always been very positive.

Eric's most recent contribution was in August 2022 aboard the vessel Nor Naomi for the Tamar SW No 1 Tie-Back Metrology project offshore Israel. The scope of work included four LBL jumper metrologies that connected a well, two FLETs an IJS and a Manifold together within the pipeline network. His typical work and highlights:

- Party Chief serving as leader of survey team of 5 personnel
- Met established goals and deadlines.
- Completed project five days ahead of schedule thanks to diligence, perseverance, attention to detail and hard work.
- Solved problems, overcame obstacles, took on multiple responsibilities.
- Extensive LBL experience and knowledgeable about the business.
- Performed work at a high level of quality and accuracy, repeating work when necessary
- Effective communication and collaboration skills, communicating with coworkers in a respectful manner, and adapting easily to many situations.
- Strict adherence to HSE by complying with company policy and procedures.
- Provided thorough documentation, reporting, record keeping and communications.
- Regular follow up, ensuring the specialized services provided a great experience.

The SW No 1 Tie-Back Metrology Campaign project was repeat business from a previous successful metrology campaign that not only exceeded expectations, but brought on reputation enhancement with its details being covered in a trade literature publication. This successful outcome was key to our team selecting Interocean, the company in which Eric worked, for the most recent campaign and Eric played a leading role in both the current and prior successes. During the projects, he performed his role with a strong work ethic, staying on until all tasks were completed, showing excellent work behavior in every aspect of the job. To summarize, I highly recommend Eric for his survey consulting capabilities.

Sincerely,
